

O'LIVE GIN

Natural Infused Vodka

How it's made

The gin is a fully distilled gin for starters. The botanicals are distilled separately and at different temperatures for the respective aromas to come out in the best fashion and to avoid killing some more fragile scents.

The olives in the gin obviously carry a lot of oil and that is something the team paid attention to as well. They figured out that corn-based alcohol binds the oils a bit better than the grain-based alcohol often used for distillation. So those who react to wheat or rye-based spirits can look into this product with a bit more confidence I guess.

After distillation the gin is brought down to the 40 % ABV bottling and drinking level with water purified with reverse osmosis. One production run yields 2.500 litres
